Important Information

Change of Address. Please call us at the telephone number listed on the front of this statement to tell us about a change of address.

Deposit Agreement. When you opened your account, you received a deposit agreement and fee schedule and agreed that your account would be governed by the terms of these documents, as we may amend them from time to time. These documents are part of the contract for your deposit account and govern all transactions relating to your account, including all deposits and withdrawals. Copies of both the deposit agreement and the fee schedule, which contain the current version of the terms and conditions of your account relationship, may be obtained at our banking centers.

Electronic transfers: In case of errors or questions about your electronic transfers

If you think your statement or receipt is wrong or if you need more information about an electronic transfer (e.g., ATM transactions, direct deposits or withdrawals, point-of-sale transactions) on the statement or receipt, telephone or write us at the address and number listed on the front side of this statement as soon as you can. We must hear from you no later than 60 days after we sent you the FIRST statement on which the error or problem appeared.

- Tell us your name and account number.
- Describe the error or the transfer you are unsure about, and explain as clearly as you can why you believe there is an error or why you need more information.
- Tell us the dollar amount of the suspected error.

For consumer accounts used primarily for personal, family or household purposes, we will investigate your complaint and will correct any error promptly. If we take more than 10 business days (20 business days if you are a new customer, for electronic transfers occurring during the first 30 days after the first deposit is made to your account) to do this, we will recredit your account for the amount you think is in error, so that you will have use of the money during the time it takes us to complete our investigation.

For other accounts, we investigate and if we find we have made an error, we credit your account at the conclusion of our investigation.

Reporting Other Problems. You must examine your statement carefully and promptly. You are in the best position to discover errors and unauthorized transactions on your account. If you fail to notify us in writing of suspected problems or unauthorized transactions within the time periods specified in the deposit agreement (which periods are no more than 60 days after we make the statement available to you and in some cases are 30 days or less), we are not liable to you for, and you agree not to make a claim against us for, the problems or unauthorized transactions.

Direct Deposits. If you have arranged to have direct deposits made to your account at least once every 60 days from the same person or company, you may call us at the telephone number listed on the front of this statement to find out if the deposit was made as scheduled.

Check 21 Frequently Asked Questions

Q. What is Check 21?

A. The Check Clearing for the 21st Century Act, or Check 21, is a new federal law that will improve the efficiency and safety of the nation's check payment system.

Q. What is a substitute check?

A. A substitute check is a paper reproduction that replaces the original check. A substitute check includes an image, front and back, of the original check and is the legal equivalent of the original check.

Q. Do all financial institutions have to comply with Check 21?

A. Yes. All financial institutions must comply with the new federal law, effective October 28, 2004.

Q. What happens to the original check?

A. When an original check is processed and a substitute check created, the original check is usually destroyed by the processing bank.

Q. What if I need a copy of a substitute check?

A. You can obtain a copy the same way you would any check: through Online Banking, by calling us at the customer service phone number listed on your bank statement or by visiting any of our banking centers.

Q. Will all of my cancelled checks be in the form of a substitute check?

A. No. You'll probably see very few substitute checks when the law becomes effective. Over time, however, more of your cancelled checks will be replaced by substitute checks.

Q. Will I be charged for substitute checks that are received in my bank statement?

A. If you receive checks in your monthly business account statement, there are currently no additional fees for substitute checks that are included in your statement. Copies (front and back) of cancelled checks, including substitute checks, are available to you at no extra charge when you view and print the image through Online Banking.

Dear Valued Customer:

To keep you aware of developments that may affect your business, we're enclosing information about Check 21, a new federal law that changes the way all banks process checks.

If you have any questions about Check 21, give us a call at the customer service number located on your business account statement. As always, we're here to help.

Sincerely,

Your Bank of America

Check 21: What is it?

In October 2003, Congress passed the Check Clearing for the 21st Century Act, commonly known as Check 21. The goal of this federal legislation is to improve the nation's check payment system and the way banks process checks.

Today, both personal and business checks are physically transported from one bank to another in order to be processed. Check 21 allows banks to create and transmit electronic images of those checks — through secure means — instead. The electronic image can then be used to create a printed image of the original check, called a substitute check. It's very important to note that a substitute check is the legal equivalent of the original and replaces the original.

How will Check 21 affect you?

Starting October 28, 2004, every bank in the United States will be required to accept substitute checks. When checks are processed, they may be converted to substitute checks.

If you currently receive cancelled checks.

If you currently receive your cancelled checks in your monthly business account statement, you may notice that some of your cancelled checks are returned to you in this new, substitute check format.

If you do not currently receive cancelled checks.

If you currently subscribe to Check Safekeeping, which means you do not receive your cancelled checks, you should experience little or no impact as a result of Check 21. Substitute checks processed on your account can be easily viewed through Online Banking the same way you view your cancelled checks today.

While all banks are required to accept substitute checks, not all checks will be converted to this format. Therefore, you may see a combination of substitute checks and original checks in your statements and also when viewing your cancelled checks online.

What will change? And what won't?

Electronic payments, including ATM withdrawals, Check Card transactions, online invoice payments and other recurring debits that post electronically will not change. There is also no change in the holding period for funds credited to your account. However, Check 21 will affect how some paper checks are processed. The checks you write to vendors and employees, as well as other paper checks, may have a shorter float time. To help ensure that this transition goes smoothly, you may want to consider Overdraft Protection Plans.

What if you need a copy of a cancelled check?

The easiest way is to log on to Online Banking and print a copy for your records. You may also call the customer service number on your business account statement or visit any one of our banking center locations. We'll keep images of your company's cancelled checks on file for seven years.

What is Check Safekeeping and what are the benefits?

Check Safekeeping is a service where the bank keeps copies of your cancelled checks (usually on microfilm or digital image) instead of returning them with your account statement. We then destroy the checks. Copies of checks are generally available for 7 years. You can access cancelled checks via Online Banking and copies can be provided by the bank upon request (standard fees may apply). By not receiving checks in your statement, you may be reducing fraud opportunities, since criminals would not have access to your checks in the mail. Safekeeping also eliminates the hassle of organizing and storing the physical documents. You should evaluate your need for check return and consider Safekeeping as an account feature.

You may have additional questions about Check 21.

If you want more information about Check 21, please see the Frequently Asked Questions below, call us at the customer service phone number printed on your bank statement or visit our website at www.bankofamerica.com/check21.

Important Information

Change of Address. Please call us at the telephone number listed on the front of this statement to tell us about a change of address.

Deposit Agreement. When you opened your account, you received a deposit agreement and fee schedule and agreed that your account would be governed by the terms of these documents, as we may amend them from time to time. These documents are part of the contract for your deposit account and govern all transactions relating to your account, including all deposits and withdrawals. Copies of both the deposit agreement and the fee schedule, which contain the current version of the terms and conditions of your account relationship, may be obtained at our banking centers.

Electronic transfers: In case of errors or questions about your electronic transfers

If you think your statement or receipt is wrong or if you need more information about an electronic transfer (e.g., ATM transactions, direct deposits or withdrawals, point-of-sale transactions) on the statement or receipt, telephone or write us at the address and number listed on the front side of this statement as soon as you can. We must hear from you no later than 60 days after we sent you the FIRST statement on which the error or problem appeared.

- Tell us your name and account number.
- Describe the error or the transfer you are unsure about, and explain as clearly as you can why you believe there is an error or why you need more information.
- Tell us the dollar amount of the suspected error.

For consumer accounts used primarily for personal, family or household purposes, we will investigate your complaint and will correct any error promptly. If we take more than 10 business days (20 business days if you are a new customer, for electronic transfers occurring during the first 30 days after the first deposit is made to your account) to do this, we will recredit your account for the amount you think is in error, so that you will have use of the money during the time it takes us to complete our investigation.

For other accounts, we investigate and if we find we have made an error, we credit your account at the conclusion of our investigation.

Reporting Other Problems. You must examine your statement carefully and promptly. You are in the best position to discover errors and unauthorized transactions on your account. If you fail to notify us in writing of suspected problems or unauthorized transactions within the time periods specified in the deposit agreement (which periods are no more than 60 days after we make the statement available to you and in some cases are 30 days or less), we are not liable to you for, and you agree not to make a claim against us for, the problems or unauthorized transactions.

Direct Deposits. If you have arranged to have direct deposits made to your account at least once every 60 days from the same person or company, you may call us at the telephone number listed on the front of this statement to find out if the deposit was made as scheduled.

Bank of America charges a check cashing fee of $5.00 to persons without an account with the bank for any check drawn on a Bank of America business account. Recently, the check-cashing fee has been challenged based on an argument that the California Labor Code (section 212) requires that an employer make wage payments available to its employees "without discount." Bank of America disagrees with the challenge of charging a check-cashing fee to persons without an account with the bank. As a reminder, we provide free checking accounts with direct deposit for which no monthly service charge fees are incurred. This enables employees to avoid paying the check-cashing fee.
